Courses

Most courses are 6 ECTS (one block, 8 weeks) or 12 ECTS (two blocks, 16 weeks) and are offered mainly in the first two blocks of the semester. Students are expected to take a minimum of 24 ECTS per semester. A maximum of 36 ECTS per semester is allowed, but not recommended since this is a very high workload for 16 weeks.

Students are expected to have an appropriate background in the field they choose. Most of the English-taught courses are third-year courses (final bachelor year). The exchange programme also offers more introductory level courses that serve as a starting course in one of the minors. Next to these courses, students can pre-register for courses at another faculty, for example from the BSc Future Planet Studies, elective courses of the Institute for Interdisciplinary Studies and of the Exchange Programme College of Humanities. Please note that students from the own faculty have priority, which means that it is much harder to get into courses of other faculties.

Placement in courses always depends on the educational background of students and on places available. Students are strongly advised to have alternatives at hand during course registration. Changes in course registration after the course registration period will not be possible. When placement in courses of their choice is not possible, we can discuss options with the students individually before the start of the semester. Please note that we cannot guarantee placement in specific courses as the allocation in courses is done via a lottery system. If a student needs a specific course we can try to accommodate, if the partner university confirms that this particular student needs this course.

The courses offered in the Exchange Programme Social and Behavioural Sciences are organised around the following research priority areas and research focus points:

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Child Development and Education • Anthropology of the Body • Anthropology of Religion • Anthropology of Economy and Ecology • Courses about a wide variety of regions • Communication and Society • Economic and Financial Geography • Environmental Geography and Planning • Political Geography • Urban Studies • International development Studies • Global Health, Care and Society • Global Migration • Urban Studies • Conflict Studies • Gender & Sexuality Studies • International Relations • Social Interactions and Interdependencies • Power, Culture, Identity • Sustainability • Computational Social Sciences 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Society, Social Action and Inequality • Culture and Structure • Political Economy • Public Policy and Governance • Comparative Politics • Political Theory • Middle Eastern Studies • European Politics and Global Change • Work and Organisational Psychology • Brain and Cognition • Social Psychology • Psychological Methods • Clinical Developmental Psychology • Clinical Psychology • Intersectionalities (class, race, gender & sexualities) • Urban Places & Social Problems • Migration & Citizenship • Health & Society • Education & Work • Globalising Cultures

PRACTICAL INFORMATION

General information for incoming students, including Visa and Insurance information can be found on our website: Practical information.

Students with disabilities

Students with disabilities are advised to contact the International Office at an early stage in the admission process. Information on services provided by the University of Amsterdam is available here.

Housing

The Amsterdam housing market is extremely challenging. UvA International Student Housing has a limited number of rooms reserved for roughly half of the newly incoming international students every semester. Please note that accommodation therefore cannot be guaranteed.

After acceptance, in May (for semester 1) and in November (for semester 2) the student will receive an email about the application procedure for student housing (lottery). The rental periods are always fixed periods. Exchange students will automatically be assigned for one or two semesters (depending on the duration of the exchange).

More information on UvA International Student Housing can be found on uva.nl/housing.

Please note that the chances to find a room are significantly higher in the spring semester.

We recommend students to withdraw their exchange if they cannot find a place to live before they arrive.

Information email

Accepted students receive an extensive information email from the International Office Social Sciences approximately two months before the start of the programme. This email contains:

- Instructions for course registration
- Save the dates and preview of activities during the introduction period

Orientation period

The International Student Network (ESN) of the Universiteit van Amsterdam organises an Introduction period before the start of the semester: click here

The International Office- Social and Behavioural Sciences organizes an introduction period for international students including an orientation meeting, an Official Welcome meeting with drinks, an academic meeting, a lecture on plagiarism, and library skills workshops. Exchange students will receive an invitation to register for these sessions and on our Canvas page they may find updated information about these meetings.
