

Open Science Meet-Up: Open Access Books (at meson press)

Andreas Kirchner

October 27, 2022

Agenda

- Open Access Books: A Very Brief Introduction
- meson press: Scholar-led Open Access Multi-format Publishing
- Workflows: Conception, Production, Distribution
- Digital Distribution: From the Publisher to the Readers

Open Access Books

- Books are still an important format in the HSS („long argument“)
- Monographs, edited collections, conference proceedings, living books, experimental books
- Open Access: free of charge and reusable
- Gold and Green Route (self-archiving)
- Open licenses (Creative Commons)

Open Access Books:

Some advantages over non-OA books and differences from journals

- Higher number of...
  - ... views
  - ... downloads (up to 7 x)
  - ... mentions (up to 10 x)
  - ... citations (50-70 %)
- Higher diversity of users

- Small and medium-sized publishers
- Printed editions
- Different types of books
- Less standardized processes
- Wide variance of costs

meson press: scholar-led open access multi-format book publishing

Scholar-led

- Emerged from a research project and managed by scholars
- Focus on media studies and philosophy of technology
- Not profit oriented, but committed to fair and transparent OA
- Founding member of ScholarLed initiative

(Gold) Open Access

- No embargo periods
- Use of open licenses (standard: CC BY-SA)
- Dual model combining low BPCs & sales revenue

Multi-Format

- PDF, HTML, EPUB, Print-on-Demand

Books

- Monographs, edited collections, and living books (about 8 / year)

ScholarLed

meson
press

Workflows

Conception

- Submission of proposals
- Editorial review
- Formats and features
- Offer and contract
- Peer review (double blind, single blind, open)
- Copy-editing

Production

- Experiments with single-source publishing tools
- "Classic" workflow: Word templates & style guide (authors)
- InDesign import (via mappings), typesetting/layout (publisher)
- Proofreading
- Creation of print files, online PDFs (with active links, TOC, metadata editing) and, when required, HTML or EPUB editions

Distribution

- Dual publishing: Open Access & Print-on-Demand

Distribution: From the publisher to the readers

- Persistent Identifiers (PID)
  - ISBN (at format level: PDF, PoD, Epub, HTML), via German „Verzeichnis lieferbarer Bücher“
  - DOI (at title level with link to website), via mEDRA
- Deposit of metadata & upload of publications
  - Directory of available books (VLB)
  - mEDRA (DOI)
  - Publisher website (WordPress)
  - Publisher repository with OAI-PMH interface (omeka)
  - OAPEN Library (DSpace, via FTP upload) / DOAB
  - Print-on-demand service providers (BoD, Lightning Source)
  - Lower Saxony Online Archive (NOA)

The Future: Open metadata by Thoth

The screenshot shows the Thoth Open Metadata website interface. At the top left, there is a navigation menu with 'Catalogue', 'Docs' (with a dropdown arrow), and 'Admin'. On the top right, there is a version indicator 'v0.7.0' and a 'Logout' button. The main content area features a large illustration on the left with four elements: a blue and green bird on a perch, a pink jellyfish, a person in a green dress, and a stylized orange and pink face with a yellow sun on its head. To the right of this illustration is the 'THOTH Open Metadata.' logo, with 'THOTH' in large green letters and 'Open Metadata.' in purple below it. Below the illustration and logo, there are five feature cards arranged horizontally:

- Open API: Try it with GraphQL, accompanied by a blue code icon.
- Open Standards: Read the Export API docs, accompanied by an orange document icon.
- Open Metadata: Truly open data, accompanied by the CC0 license icon.
- Open Access: Built for OA books, accompanied by a red padlock icon.

Digital Activism in Asia Reader

The digital turn might as well be marked as an Asian turn. From flash-mobs in Taiwan to feminist mobilisations in India, from hybrid media strategies of Syrian activists to cultural protests in Thailand, we see the emergence of political acts that transform the citizen from being a beneficiary of change to becoming an agent of change. In co-shaping these changes, what the digital shall be used for, and what its consequences will be, are both up for speculation and negotiation. Digital Activism in Asia marks a particular shift where these questions are no longer being refracted through the ICT4D logic, or the West's attempts to save Asia from itself, but shaped by multiplicity, unevenness, and urgencies of digital sites and users in Asia. This reader crowd-sources critical tools, concepts, analyses, and annotations, self-identified by a network of change makers in Asia as important in their own practices within their own contexts.

Ecology of Affect. Intensive Milieus and Contingent Encounters

Autor/Innen: Angerer, Marie-Luise

Abstract
The way we conceive the human today is particularly affected by the shifts in media technology during the 20th century. Affect emerges as the new liminal concept that renders the body compatible in novel ways with the technology and politics of media. By ways of a relational reorganization the organic and technological life is condensed in a new, intense way to an ecology of affects.
